- Contact your legislators and focus on personal and local impact in your message.
- Use the list of organizations below to explore issues you care about, track how they are affected during the budget session, and learn how you can take action.

Who's working on the issues you care about?

ESPC was founded by a diverse coalition of partners working on labor, conservation, and social justice issues, while ESPC itself focuses on transparent government and fair elections—foundational elements of a well-functioning democracy. Visit our coalition member and other Wyoming organization websites for details on bills they are following this budget session. Many nonprofits have representatives at the Capitol who help educate legislators on the topics, impacts, and implications of proposed legislation. These organizations also provide guidance and talking points to help citizens participate, from calling, emailing, or texting local representatives and senators to testifying on legislation during committee hearings via Zoom.

The Wyoming Nonprofit Network offers a robust directory of organizations working on Wyoming issues and solutions. Below are a few to get you started, with ESPC coalition members bolded:
